One day Training workshop on “Human Rights, Gender Equality and Human trafficking” was organised on 15.03.2017 under the aegis of Karnataka State Commission for Human Rights , organised by Global Concerns India, Academy of Gandhian Studies, CARE and Vanamitra, hosted by Department of Sociology, Al-Ameen Arts, Science and Commerce College, Bangalore.

One hundred and forty students and seven Teachers attended one day action packed programme. In the first session Mr.Manohar, the Human Rights educator and activist enlightened the students about the human rights, the various laws that ensure safety, protection and dignity and the toll free numbers which they can use in case of emergency. In the second session Ms.Brinda Adige of Global Concerns India, enthralled the audience with her unique way of interacting and inspiring the students. She dealt with the themes of Gender Equality and Human Trafficking. Students had lots of clarifications and doubts to clear with her.

The Chief Guest of the valedictory function was none other than Hon’ble Chairperson, Karnataka State Commission for Human Rights, Ms.Meera C.Saksena. She was impressed by the fact that fifty percent of the participants were boys. In her valedictory address, she spoke about the need to create social awareness about rights and duties in the young generation, gender equality and the various forms of atrocities that are inflicted on women. The programme ended with a positive note that right type of education has far reaching impact on society.
