

In pursuance of its commitment towards offering value-based education, Department of Sociology organized one day educational trip to Ashiana Old age Home, Devnahalli Road, Bangalore. B.A. students of all the three years accompanied by faculty members from Sociology, History, Economics, English and Mathematics departments, visited the old age home. Although it is a part of the internal assessment project for Sociology, the trip is to bridge a gap between the present and the past and make the new generation become empathetic with the elderly. It was an emotionally charged atmosphere when the young met the old, when inmates shared their stories with the students. Apart from making donation, the students gave them sweet memories by offering an entertainment programme and a lot of love.
